

Practec Ltd were engaged by Jones Lang LaSalle "Aus" to under take the hard Fitout for the Goodman Fielder NZ project at 8 Nelson St Auckland. The package value was $1.4M with works across five floors.

The project involved the refit of Deloitte House, The scope called for a combination of new and reuse of existing, complete with a large commercial kitchen. During the project they were helpful and cooperative and worked around any difficulties in a proactive manner, all of which was done while maintaining a tight programme. When called upon for input and advice, there was genuine engagement offering good alternative practical solutions.

The companies on & off site management controlled their work efficiently which demonstrated a broad experience base and were professional in all their dealings. This experience also showed through in the workmanship which was of a high standard resulting in a very few remedial items. This attention to the detail flowed through to the final accounts which were completed in a short time.

I would not hesitate to recommend Practec Ltd and would be happy to work with them again.

Yours faithfully
