To Whom It May Concern

Practec completed the fit-out of our Auckland head office in December 2012. Although we hadn't worked with Practec before, it was clear from our first meeting that we had made the right choice. A complex build coupled with a tight construction programme meant that the need for a company with the highest quality standards and sufficient resources, both in skilled labour and procurement ability, was paramount.

Practec's attention to detail was fantastic, with all the members of their team highly skilled, diligent and extremely enthusiastic. Combine this with Stephen Davies' excellent project management and communication skills, his high level of integrity, professionalism and 'can do' attitude meant that the whole project was a highly enjoyable experience.

We have 100 per cent confidence in the work Practec undertake. Furthermore, they stand behind the work they do like no other firm we have encountered. We continue to use Practec for all our construction needs and have no hesitation in recommending them to anyone else who is looking for a project to be delivered to the highest standards, on time and on budget.

Sincerely,
